By EDGAR PEREZ
Two teenaged hitchhikers are lodged in the Hancock County jail after being killed in an alleged armed robbery attempt by a 60-year-old Chalmette, La., man.

Ishamel J. Ayo told Sheriff Sylvan Ladner he had picked up the two youths as he was driving east on Interstate-10 in Louisiana just outside the Mississippi state line.

One of the youths allegedly pulled a knife on Ayo and demanded money as the three were traveling through Hancock County, the sheriff reported.

Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson said Ayo reported struggling with his assailant in the cab of his pickup truck, then chasing the two, striking one behind the ear with a piece of pipe.

Peterson said Ayo then asked a passerby to call the sheriff's office. State Highway Patrolmen Earl J. Cox and Hershel Ladner who were patrolling the highway at the time received the alert from the sheriff's office and apprehended the two hitchhikers.

Jailed without bond on charges of attempted armed robbery and aggravated assault in connection with the incident are Robert Bowen, 18, of Russellville, Ark., and Billy Gene Camp, 18, of Cleburne, Tex.

Camp is charged in addition with carrying a concealed weapon, Peterson said. The deputy noted Camp may be a fugitive from Texas.

The incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, the sheriff reported.

Juvenile, two adults jailed

Police charge three in Junior High fire

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A Bay St. Louis Police investigation of a burglary, theft and assault with a deadly weapon on Main Street Thursday night has led to the arrest of two local men and a juvenile in connection with the July 18 arson of Bay Junior High.

Darryle R. Smith, 20, 344 Keller St.; Arthur Saucier, 18, 500 block of Main Street, and a 17 year juvenile have been placed under arrest, according to Bay Chief of Police Douglas Williams, and are being held without bond in Hancock County jail in connection with the school fire.

Williams said his department received a call at 10:38 p.m. Thursday saying a woman was being held at gun point at her home on Main Street.

Patrolman Alton Benoit was the first to arrive at the residence followed shortly by police investigator Dave Seller.

After receiving a description of the alleged suspects from Mrs. Jeanne Williams of 317 Main St., the woman in question, Benoit left and began a search of the area with other Bay police.

Seller stayed with Mrs. Williams who had run into the street after her alleged assailants left her house.

Police said she had flagged down a passerby who reported Mrs. Williams' plight to police.

Within a short period, John Legier, 21, 244 Ballentine was picked up, and charged with burglary and assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the Williams complaint.

A short time later, Darryle R. Smith, was picked up and charged with burglary, theft and assault with a deadly weapon, according to police.

After the arrest of Smith at his residence, police were given written permission to search his home, and Chief Williams said evidence linking Smith to the Bay Junior High fire was found.

Williams said upon further questioning, Smith admitted being at the Junior High School on the night of the fire.

The Bay police Department and State Fire Marshal's office had been working continuously on the arson case since the morning of July 18, and this was the break they were looking for, according to Investigator Seller.

By putting bits and pieces together, according to Chief Williams, and Investigator Seller, a 17-year-old juvenile was arrested Friday afternoon.

And about six p.m. Friday, Arthur Saucier was also linked to the fire, police said.

In addition to Chief Williams, Seller and Benoit, Assistant Chief Frank Hess, Patrolmen Louis Hearty, Harris Boudreaux, and Albert Biehl and State

Fire Marshall Norman Cowart were involved in the long night of continuous investigation.

Chief Williams had high praises for the efforts of his men in this case, "because it was a team effort." The chief said that John Legier late Friday had not been linked to the arson.

Further investigation will continue over the weekend, according to Williams and Seller.

On July 27, a reward of $1000 had been offered for information leading to the apprehension, indictment, and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the willful attempted destruction of the Junior High School. $500 of the award was from the office of Mississippi Commissioner of Insurance and State Fire Marshall George Dale and the balance from local businesses and organizations.

W. J. Cameron, principal of the school said damage from the fire ran into thousands of dollars. His desk was destroyed as well as class schedules. Also damaged were the assistant principal's and secretary's offices.

The fire burned itself out on the top of Cameron's desk.

AG ok's construction of Hospitality Station

State Senator Martin Smith confirmed Friday an opinion from Attorney General A. F. Sumner has cleared the way for start of construction of a $1.2 million Hospitality Station on Interstate-10 in Hancock County.

The attorney general, in the opinion requested by the State Highway Department, confirmed legality of the State Highway Commission's earlier acceptance of the bid of Roy Anderson Jr. of Gulfport.

Actual contract signing awarding the job to Anderson had been delayed after the state learned of an irregularity in Anderson's bid bond.

John Tabb, Highway Department director, said construction on the project will begin within 30 days, with project completion date set for Nov. 30, 1978.

The Hancock County Hospitality Station and another on I-10 at the Mississippi-Alabama line near Moss Point have been pet projects of Mississippi Gulf Coast Chambers of Commerce for the past five years.

CDR Mason's new tour will be on the Coast Guard's 1st Maritime Coast Guard cutter, USCGC Spencer, in Norfolk. His family will continue to live in Long Beach. Capt. John M. News Brief

ATHENS JAIL

The Monroe County Jail, or Athens Jail, has been entered in the National Register of Historic Places, according to Elbert R. Hilliard, director of the Department of Archives and History. Hilliard was notified of the new listing in a letter from Chris Therrall Delaporte, director of the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior. The Athens Jail stands isolated in a pasture in Athens, a two-story structure of masonry, wood, and metal, the result of three building programs: the 1845 original construction, the last 19th century conversion to a dwelling, and early twentieth century remodeling, which severely changed the building. The Athens Jail has suffered not only from many alterations, but also from serious neglect. Presently the Monroe County Historical Society is raising funds to acquire and restore the building, which will be utilized as a county museum.

HUNTSVILLE NEWS WEDNESDAY, JULY 12

A True Success Story

By ROLAND LANGLEY
News Sports Editor

This is a success story. A story about a virtual unknown football player who, by pure determination, went from a small high school team to a powerful west coast pro football franchise.

It is also a story that gives me a chance to reminisce. You see, I grew up with Sam Piazza, now a punter for the Oakland Raiders.

We spent many hours together in the small Gulf Coast town of Waveland, Miss., and games of tackle football were just another way of passing the long summer days.

There was a field covered with high grass between Sam and my house that was the frequent battle ground for our neighborhood pick-up games. Little did we suspect that Sam's punting ability, which allowed him to out-distance even the older boys' kicks, would be his fame one day.

We were still in elementary school in this dying resort town surrounded by bayous and swamp, but our pigskin games were visions of the big times to us. Ole Miss or L.S.U.

After ten years, I had to tell my friends good-bye, my family moving up to Decatur, Ala. Two trips a year back home kept our friendships alive.

Sam went on to play as a linebacker and part-time punter at Ray St. Louis High (Waveland) was too small to support its own prep school so everyone drove to nearby Bay St. Louis. His team didn't do bad, finishing with better than a .500 record.

Pearl River Junior College then called on Sam, and he went. Shortly afterward he was named the best Offensive Lineman in the Junior College South Division of Mississippi. He also was All-State and played in the Mississippi Junior College All-Star game in 1976. His punting ability was left out of the limelight.

From here, it was on to Delta State University, a member of the Gulf South Conference, and it was here that a twist of fate pointed the direction for Sam's career. The Statemen had begun their season with one win under their belt and Sam was still an offensive lineman. Then, the day before the second outing the regular punter severely twisted his ankle. The Delta State coaching staff had to find another punter and quick.

Sam's high school punting career was discovered and he was shuffled into the starting kicking position. The next night he boomed a 43.5 yard punt and averaged 39.5 yards per kick for the game.

In Sam's words 'It was all luck.' But what happened afterward wasn't. He established new records at Delta State as well as for the Gulf South Conference by averaging 42.7 per punt in 1977.

The Statemen were impressed with Sam and knew he was pro material. They informed him of a free-agent try-out game in Atlanta and stress the importance of going.

Sam went. Representatives of every professional team in the NFL were there. So were more than 100 excited athletes.

When the day was over, the New York Giants and Cleveland Browns were interested in Sam and said they would call back in three days.

Three days passed and the Giants or Browns did not call. But Oakland had. Sam was flown to California for a mini-camp. The first day he was signed to a rookie contract, $20,000 for the first year.

The fact that Sam is punting behind Ray Guy, the league's leading punter with a 43.5 average, doesn't bother him.

"He's good, real good but all I can do is the best I can and hope something works out, whether with Oakland or another team," Piazza said. "I do feel I can punt in the NFL, though."

This morning Sam left at 6:15 a.m. to fly to California and a new career.

I called yesterday to wish him well but he wasn't home. His mother said Sam was in the same overgrown field practicing his punting.

Opinion/Ellis Cuevas

It is nice and cool inside, but!

As we go about our daily chores, and most of us do them inside air conditioned offices and then go home at night to air conditioned homes, we seem to forget about our football players in the hot sun getting into shape for the coming season.

The football players and coaches feel the pressures from the hot weather, but they keep on getting ready for the whistle of the opening game.

We have a tendency to forget the amount of time and work spent by football players for the few hours of entertainment they give us, the fans, each week.

The way we can show our appreciation is by attending the games, it will be a little cooler then. Let us all try and make this the biggest season ever in attendance at the Tiger, Rock-A-Chaw, Hawk and Pirate stadiums.

HEALTH TIPS

from the AMA

Do you need to lose weight? If you do, you are not alone. One out of every five Americans is taking more pounds than he or she should, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

And you can forget all of the books and magazine articles about losing weight without dieting. The only way to take in your belt or slip into that pantsuit again is to eat less and exercise more, the AMA points out.

But, no matter how much you exercise, you can't just shake it off. An inescapable exercise is turning your back on food and repeating many times a day the word "no!"

First, find out what you should weigh. There are charts that will give you a general idea. Because no two persons are exactly alike, there are no ideal, absolute weights. But you can find your approximate ideal weight, give or take five or ten pounds.

Calories do count. If you eat more calories than your body can use in its normal, daily activity, the excess is stored in fat. Most people leading moderately active lives need 15 calories per pound to maintain their desired weight. If you want to weigh 150 pounds, you can consume food containing no more than 2,250 calories each day—150 x 15 equals 2,250.

If you're above the desired weight, you must consume less than the total calories per day needed to maintain present weight. You needn't go hungry. Just eat more low-calorie foods and shun the gravies, creamed dishes, rich desserts, fried entrees, and liquor. Eat slowly and fill up on carrot sticks, leafy vegetables, radishes, consommés, and most fresh fruits. Get a calorie counter booklet and plan your diet menus around it.

There are approximately 3,500 calories in each stored pound of fat. To lose one pound a week consume 500 fewer calories each day than if you were already at your desired weight. If you want to lose two pounds each week, cut the calories back by 1,000 each day. It is usually unwise to try to lose more than two pounds per week. If you are more than 10 pounds overweight, see your family doctor before launching any do-it-yourself diet.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

You've discussed positioning in the market several times, which I kind of understand, but recently I heard the term "target positioning."?

Dear ????: As you know, positioning is establishing a place in the total market. Target positioning is finding out what opportunities a market offers and focusing in on these in purchasing merchandise and in advertising.

Many general merchandise stores have been narrowing lines to those that sell best and turn over the highest margins.

But the theory here is that many times, by failing to understand the needs of market, a retailer may be missing the mark entirely.

For instance, a ladies' shop, in studying the local market, found much more demand for junior sizes than they previously thought.

Junior size customers simply didn't shop there because they knew they couldn't be fitted.

After the study, the store began stocking juniors, and increased sales 8 per cent the first year.

So the problem here was one that would not have been discovered by eliminating lines—their best bet was a line they didn't carry to begin with.

Small merchants are usually more sensitive to these kinds of special needs of their local market, because they have a personal contact with the community, their customers and their merchandise.

And many owe most of their success to this ability to buy for their market.

But as stores and communities grow the management often loses this insight. And the market is constantly changing.

Target positioning is also a matter of finding the heavy users (those who spend more), according to a top department store executive.

For heavy users represent the prime source of business. And they usually are the greatest potential for new business, simply because they spend more elsewhere than the average customer does.

ALL TOGETHER NOW - Bay High Tigers loosen up on the first day of football practice. Coach Billy Rhodes, assisted by Gary Griffin and James Smith, will have to build up their offense, according to Rhodes, because the Tiger defense is stronger. The Tigers open at home against Notre Dame, Sept. 1. At the opening practice Thursday, Rhodes said he expects about 40 out for the squad this season. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

LIMBERING UP - Pass Christian Pirates opened football practice Thursday under new head coach Bobby Lumpkin with new assistant Allen Parker. Lumpkin said another assistant will be named. The Pirates were 8-2 in regular play last season and will have to completely rebuild the lines on offense and defense, according to Lumpkin. He said he has only one starter on the line on both defense and offense returning. Lumpkin, in his third year at Pass Christian, is looking to the opening game against Vancleave at home on Sept. 1. MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division Of The Office Of
A. F. Summer, Attorney General

JOIN THE CLUB?

Q: I have been offered a membership in a buyers club for a $500 fee, but they say I can save $1,000 the first year if I buy through the club at reduced prices. Can I really save any money by joining one?

A: All of us look for means to save money, and when we are offered ways of doing it, we usually jump at the opportunity. Operators of "buyers clubs" or "Buying services" know this.

A significant number of these clubs or services claim to offer name brand products at significant reduction in prices. Their advertising contends that because of the large membership of the club, special prices for products can be negotiated with manufacturers.

Supposedly these giant savings are then passed on to the club members. All brands of products are advertised as available through such clubs—food, appliances, autos, insurance, home furnishings. Unfortunately, the claims made by the promoters of these clubs often have no relationship to what they are actually able to deliver.

In some instances, consumers are pressured into joining a buying club. Sometimes they receive notice in the mail that they have won or may win a free gift.

After responding to find out what they have won or how to win, they discover that they must listen to a sales pitch which usually contains exaggerated claims and before they know it, they have signed a contract.

Some companies may use half-truths or suggestive terms to mislead consumers into joining buyers clubs. For instance, the club may offer products at prices reduced from the "suggested retail price". The gimmick here is that few retail outlets in your area may actually charge the "suggested retail price." In short, the club is only offering you what you can find on your own in your local stores.

Then there is the mail order problem. Even if the prices offered by the club are cheaper than they might be in a store, they have to be cheap enough to cover postage, as well as the loss of such intangible services as ease of returning defective or unsatisfactory products.

Also there are the delays that often occur when buying by mail and the mixups in orders or substitutions sometimes made by the company and not approved of by customers.

All of this is not to say that all buying clubs are fraudulent or involve some form of deception. Food buying clubs and other forms of buying co-ops have functioned successfully and at a savings for their members for many years. What is necessary, however, is caution before joining.

—Don't sign any papers to join a buying club before you compare the prices it offers with the prices of goods in local stores.

—Determine if savings on the products offered through the club warrant your spending the money for the membership dues.

—Don't commit yourself to a multi-year contract, try it out first; if it does provide real savings, you can renew your membership.

—Don't believe extravagant reduction claims of 50 percent to 60 percent off on name-brand products.

—Ask friends who have joined the club how they have liked it and what sort of savings they have enjoyed. If you don't know anyone who has joined, ask the club itself to supply you with names in your area. If the financial commitment is a large one, see your attorney before signing anything.

A Competent Government Is Not Too Much To Ask

by David Cohen

Politicians fiddle, problems go unsolved, and taxpayers' tempers flare. More and more, our government is viewed by its citizens as being unable or unwilling to deal with critical issues.

Today, special interests dominate our political system and these interests—usually focused on a single issue—pursue their own narrow agendas. Through the use of political money and hidden lobbying, they wield considerable clout with the Administration and Congress. In effect, they paralyze government and stop it from performing on behalf of its citizens.

No single special interest alone is responsible or wants to create this paralysis, but when they have all acted, that's the result. Nowhere is this effect clearer than in our inability to stop inflation. Each special interest—the dairy industry, airlines, highway builders, truckers, doctors, building trade union members, lawyers, and a cast of thousands—has a particular inflationary favor it wants from government. With their immense power, special interests get the rewards they seek, from invisible tax subsidies to government regulations which protect an economic interest.

To combat the heavy special interest influence, citizens must take an active role in framing the debate on the critical issues facing the nation. We have a responsibility to shape the alternatives and advocate the choices that will work. We cannot abandon the field to the special interests. Our challenge is to build support for systematic changes that will stop wasteful spending, unnecessary regulations, and unfair taxes.

If government is to perform on behalf of the people and work to solve problems rather than duck them, Congress has to act responsibly by taking the necessary steps to make government competent. Congress should:

- Pass Sunset legislation to require Congress to discard outdated, inflexible, and wasteful government activities and permit room for new initiatives. Citizens are frustrated by the inability and unwillingness of Congress to end unfair taxes, and government programs and regulations which do not work and are no longer needed.

- Reform the civil service to hold our civil servants to high standards of performance and protect those who blow the whistle on wrongdoers. The American public is entitled to a federal civil service that is both efficient and accountable, responsive and responsible.
- Curb the two worst special interest abuses, political money and hidden lobbying. Enact Congressional campaign finance reform by enabling small contributions to be matched by the voluntary dollar tax check-off already used in the Presidential election. Enact lobby disclosure legislation to require the powerful lobbies to disclose how, what and on whom they're spending their money to influence the system.

A healthy political system requires citizens who know what's going on. Nobody can do it for us. After all, you don't have to be an expert to know you want competence from your government.

Book Review

Bay St. Louis

by Hart Shorn

August 1 was publication date for Bantam's pocket-size edition of LLEWELLYN'S PERSONAL GUIDE AND ASTROLOGICAL ALMANAC FOR 1979.

There are 12 guides, 1 for each sign of the zodiac. Each book explains the symbolism and temperament of the particular birth sign and offers predictions on changes, relationships, vitality and prosperity.

All astrological influences are charted, and the authors provide readers with a detailed daily forecast for 1979 as well as a look at the last half of 1978.

The guides are written by Marylee Bytheriver, astrologer for Llewellyn Publications under the editorial direction of Carl Weschcke, president of Llewellyn Publications - the oldest astrological and occult publisher in the Western Hemisphere.

Since 1905, Llewellyn Publications has devoted itself to the publication - and popularization - of serious astrological and occult texts. They are the publishers of the MOON SIGN BOOK, the oldest astrological periodical still in print (first published in 1905) also available in Bantam paperback.

In addition to a variety of astrological handbooks, Llewellyn Publications also publishes two bi-monthly magazines: Astrology Now and Gnostica. Each year, Llewellyn Publications gathers together noted occult thinkers for four days of lectures and workshops for its Gnostic-Aquarian Festival. Since Bantam first launched its mass-market paperback editions of Llewellyn Publications' books with 12 LLEWELLYN'S PERSONAL GUIDES AND ASTROLOGICAL ALMANACS FOR 1978 last year, these Llewellyn books have been added to the Bantam list: the MOON SIGN BOOK, ASTROLOGY FOR THE MILLIONS, HEAVEN KNOWS WHAT and a LLEWELLYN ASTROLOGICAL CALENDAR.

In just one year, the number of copies in Bantam print of all Llewellyn titles has grown to nearly 1.5 million copies.

Later this year, Bantam will publish the 1979 MOON SIGN BOOK and a LLEWELLYN ASTROLOGICAL CALENDAR.

Following are excerpts from the new guide:

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20) - How much you let others influence your business decisions and how much you are able to think for yourself will be issue during 1979.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18) - People of foreign origin may enter your life during 1979, and this is an excellent year to learn a foreign language.

PISCES (February 18 - March 21) - During this year you will have a more philosophical attitude toward your varying sexual energy, and the connection between your spiritual growth and your occult explorations will be made clear to you.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20) - During the last half of 1979 you will feel an inner conflict between your need for personal growth and your duties to others.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 21) - You will attract original, eccentric people to you this year... You are likely to enter an unusual or socially unacceptable relationship....

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21) - Be particularly careful in relationships involving family members. You are gullible and sensitive this fall and can easily be led into a situation that contradicts your personal ethical standards.

CANCER (June 21 - July 23) - A good year to take on a major redecorating or refurbishing project.

LEO (July 23 - August 22) - Your once stable salary now seems particularly precarious. There may be delays or interruption in your usual paycheck; a strike, bankruptcy or reformation of the company for which you work causes unexpected changes of salary.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22) - Be careful when buying real estate or making home improvements this year. Your purchases will be based more on sentiment than monetary value.

LIBRA (September 22 - October 23) - Watch for sudden opportunities to earn extra money this year. Be prepared to take risks - and sometimes lose - if you want to increase your material wealth.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 22) - During the last half of the year, you will find that your reputation suffers. Others shy away from you, and you begin to feel paranoid and lonely.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 22) This year, you will encounter more difficulties relating to people in group situations.

DOG HEPATITIS

Hepatitis is one of the most common viral infections in dogs, so common that almost 80 percent of all dogs are exposed to the disease before they're fully grown.

A highly contagious infection with effects that every from a slight fever to a fatal illness, hepatitis is caused by a virus that settles in the dog's liver and kidneys.

The first symptom is generally a temperature above 104 degrees F., lasting from one to six days. As the infection progresses, the pet experiences weight loss, discharge from the eyes and nose, and extreme thirst.

About 25 percent of the affected animals develop a temporary bluish-white eye discoloration.

Statistics indicate that the mortality rate from hepatitis for dogs, especially puppies, is very high. Dogs that do recover are slow to regain lost weight.

Once established, the hepatitis virus is excreted for months in the urine, even when the dog appears to have recovered from the disease.

Susceptible animals are infected by contact with the contaminated urine, feces, bedding or toys used by a sick dog.

Dogs in the country may become infected after exposure to the urine of foxes, coyotes or raccoons with the disease.

Symptoms of hepatitis and distemper are quite similar. Dogs vaccinated against distemper may come down with hepatitis, while the pet owners wonder why the distemper shot didn't "take."

Hepatitis and distemper are separate diseases and pets should be vaccinated against both.

There are excellent vaccines that will protect your dog against hepatitis, or a combination of hepatitis, distemper and leptospirosis.

These vaccines are constantly being modified and improved to offer the most protection with the least side effects.

A new vaccine for prevention of canine hepatitis has recently been developed and is now available to veterinarians. It contains an attenuated virus that will not cause blue eye, and thus represents a significant advance in vaccine safety.

Puppies, the prime targets of hepatitis infection, should receive their first inoculation at about nine to twelve weeks of age.

Before that time, puppies are protected by the immunity transmitted from vaccinated mothers. Annual vaccination for all dogs is strongly recommended.

+ The
Ole Pastor Says

WHY do we not turn to modern sources for our doctrines of God and salvation? Why, in a world that is changing so rapidly, do we still go back for our moral and spiritual guidance to what was written so long ago?

Because, for one thing, the essence of the gospel, as defined in the Scriptures (I Cor. 15:1-6), consist of unchangeable, historical facts.

ROBIN HOOD

The immortal legend of Robin Hood gets a new twist in a junior version to be presented on "Once Upon a Classic" at 7 p.m., Thursday, August 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "Robin Hood Junior," first seen last winter, stars young people in all the principal roles. The junior outlaws ingeniously copy their hero's daring exploits, with the obvious delight of children living out their dearest fantasy. Robin's career is not quite the same as Robin Hood's. Robin and company are half the size of the Baron and his men, so they must rely on their speed, cunning and Robin's expert shooting. Robin is played by young Keith Chagwin, who first appeared professionally as Banquo's son in Roman Polanski's "Macbeth." Keith performed all of his own stunts in "Robin Hood Junior," and, by the end of the film, had become quite a proficient archer.

Marine interests advise of detour

The Industrial Canal Navigation Lock connecting the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, the Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet, and Inner Harbor Navigation Canal with the Mississippi River at New Orleans, will be closed to all marine traffic for approximately 30 days beginning at 6 a.m. Monday, August 14.

Colonel Thomas A. Sands, New Orleans district engineer, said the lock closure is necessary to dewater the lock so that essential major repairs to gates, valves, and other operating machinery could be made. The lock was last dewatered for major repairs in 1967.

Col. Sands said to keep disruption of commercial and pleasure marine traffic at a minimum, repair crews will work on a 24-hour basis until the repairs are complete.

An alternate route with a depth of 12 feet is provided through Baptiste Collette Bayou via Breton Sound and the Mississippi River Gulf Outlet. Baptiste Collette is located about 80 miles below the lock on the Mississippi River.
